

INDIA WILL ASSEMBLE LARGE ARMY IF NECESSARY

Calcutta, Dec. 2.—"If our Emperor, King George V of England, requires an army larger than that of Russia, we will be able to supply it and we will be proud to do so," said His Highness the Maharaja of Idar, Maharaja Shri Dattatraya, when he passed through this city on his way to join the British General Staff at the front in France.

To illustrate the present martial ardor of the Indians the Maharaja told the pathetic story of his own military secretary. After bidding farewell to his master, this secretary assembled his family and close friends. He said good bye to them and then shot himself dead, overcome with anguish that he could not accompany his master to the field of battle.

The Maharaja is the fifth of the Indian Princes who have left India on active military duty. He is the adopted son of the celebrated Sir Peter Slings.

All people and creeds are united in India today in enthusiasm for the cause of the Empire," he said.

"Every Indian both old and young would most gladly respond to the King-Emperor's call," he said.

"As only a comparatively small number of men may go to the battlefield at present, many officers and Indians of high birth are going in the ranks. You will probably be surprised to learn that my two sauces or ground are captives.

"My captives are very well to do. They came with me in these circumstances because it was the only way they could come.

"Even the ground who came to Bombay with our horses and then had to return home went away dejectedly and in tears."

He said the Maharaja of Idar, seventeen years old, was anxious despite his youth to get into the fighting. His mother supported him in this desire. Finally he wrote to the Viceroy, saying, "Why am I not allowed to go? I have three brothers so if I am killed in battle it does not matter." He was allowed to go to the front.

The Maharaja said the presence of Turkey on the other side of the conflict will have no effect in India.

"Turkey is a football of the Germans. She cannot pretend to represent Mohammedanism. All sections of India are proud to be on the side of the Empire. For instance, Rajputana has an army of 30,000 men, but no fewer than half a million men have offered themselves and are eager to serve. Nepal has put her whole force of 80,000 men at the Emperor's disposal.

"If the battlefield were nearer and not separated from India by sea, the Indians would go over without orders to fight.

not to favor Cavanaugh there seems to exist the highest regard for his knowledge of football and his ability to whip into form a team which will be ranked among the best in the land. Their grievance seems to be against certain characteristics of his methods rather than against the results he obtains. Yet some of the alumni appear to be dissatisfied with the results of his four years. During this time, they point out Dartmouth has defeated Princeton but once, and was defeated by Harvard in the two games played. The victories over Pennsylvania and Princeton last year were largely compromised by the stigma of the final and stinging defeat of Carleton, and the real strength of the team this year is dubious, for Pennsylvania was notoriously weak, and Syracuse for years has not been in the class with the Green team. The one game of the past season which Dartmouth men wanted to win more than all else was the Princeton game, and the team's failure will cost it what would otherwise seem its proper rating.

Some of the alumni claim this breaking down of a characteristic of Cavanaugh's teams. They go through the season rolling up enormous scores against teams with which the score is a matter of indifference, and fall down when the score and victory are vital. There can be no doubt that Cavanaugh's teams know football and impress everyone with their ability to play the game; but unfortunately they seem unable to master the punch when needed. The Dartmouth season is thus in striking contrast to Houghton's system of just crawling through the season, never using an unnecessary ounce of strength, but holding in reserve the punch necessary to win from Princeton or Michigan as they come along. The Dartmouth team has been one of the heaviest scorers of the year, yet in the minds of some of the alumni big scores cannot atone for the defeat at Princeton, when the team so evidently underplayed itself.

It is difficult to find the real meaning of alumni or undergraduate dissatisfaction toward Cavanaugh. It does not seem to arise in football matters alone but to be lodged in other affairs about which there is a division of opinion among alumni. For several seasons before he was engaged as Dartmouth's coach, there had been insistent calls for him. Not only his ability as a member of the Dartmouth team, but also his remarkable record as coach at Worcester Academy, where his teams were notably superior to all their opponents, seemed to stamp him as the man of the hour, and the same spirit against Cavanaugh which appears to be cropping out now was abroad then, and for a considerable time prevented his engagement. Just where the spirit begins or ends no one seems to know, but there is little doubt that it extends quite high into the councils of the college. It is claimed during his term two or three unfortunate incidents have arisen, but kept rather closely guarded from the public, which have if anything, strengthened his opponents.

Lee Magee Says He Will Jump to Federals Only to Be a Manager

Lee Magee, the St. Louis Cardinal player who has been flirting with the Federal league, denies that he has signed any contract and he says he will not sign unless he gets a managerial berth. At one time it was reported that Magee was to succeed Bill Bradley as manager of the Brooklyn Reds, but there seems to be a hitch in that deal. Magee is only 26 years old and has been a major league player but five seasons. Should he become a manager he will be the youngest man who ever attempted to handle a big league team. Hal Chase was 28 when he became manager of the New York Yankees, where he did not make good. Charlie Dinin was the same age when he took charge of the Philadelphia National league team. Magee received $6000 last season with the Cardinals as salary, and his bonus because the team finished third was $1200. That is a good deal more than other players of his ability received, and St. Louis fans are not pleased with his threat to quit the Cardinals as he had signed a contract for two years longer. However, his contract had the ten days' release clause, and he gave notice some time ago that he had canceled the contract.

Cavanaugh, has on the other hand a great army of admirers, among the alumni, friendly and ardently loyal as any man could wish, and it would appear that should he desire, or be willing to coach again, an attempt to replace him will be strongly opposed. The admirers of Cavanaugh claim that Dartmouth's team have never been so well instructed in football, nor ranked high so consistently as during the past four years.

What would seem by far the most practical thing to consider is the possibility of finding a successor. There are several Dartmouth men coaching in various places but none of them seems to measure up to Cavanaugh in knowledge of football or in experience. Unless the dissatisfaction toward Cavanaugh is based upon something very substantial to the public, it would seem precarious to experiment upon a new coach with one so good at hand.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Dec. 2.—Another unpaid commission will be wiped out this year and a paid board substituted, if the American Federation of Labor have their way. They have voted to introduce a bill in the legislature to abolish the present prison commission only the chairman of which, Frank L. Randall, receives a salary, and substitute a single commissioner with two deputies. It is reported that Governor Walsh would not be adverse to such a bill. Such an inference has been drawn by his failure to take any action when the term of Henry Parkman, a member of the commission, expired some months ago. The other members of the present commission are: Hannah T. Garret of Cambridge, whose term expires the coming year; H. Steadman of Braintree, term expires 1917; and Catherine M. O'Leary of Boston, 1918. Chairman Randall's term does not expire until 1916.

Boston, Dec. 2.—Postmaster Murray has issued a statement regarding the shipment of packages by parcel post to foreign countries. In this statement he says: Parcel post packages for New England must be accompanied by customs declarations, differing in this respect from parcels sent to Canada. Packages for New England, England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, which weigh less than six ounces may be sent at declaration. Heavier packages should be sent by international parcel post, accompanied by customs declarations, which may be obtained without charge at any post office. The latest safe closing date for parcel post packages are: Netherlands, Dec. 7; Sweden and Denmark, Dec. 8; Norway, Dec. 14; England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, Dec. 11; Newfoundland, Dec. 15.

Boston, Dec. 2.—The Federation of state, city, and town employees have voted to send a committee to protest to Governor Walsh against the attitude of a certain unnamed commission toward its employees and threatens, if the governor fails to act, to appeal to the legislature to legislate the commission out of office. They have also voted to introduce a bill to require all commissions salaries above $2000 to give their entire time to the work.

Boston, Dec. 2.—Every person who now uses the telephone to make calls costing 15 cents or more will have to pay one cent federal revenue tax in addition to the regular charge. This is in accordance with the emergency revenue law recently passed by congress, which requires the telephone companies of the United States to make the collection. To collect this federal tax at pay stations the operator will say "Please drop one cent federal tax in the quarter slot." When the penny drops it will be heard by the operator. The new law applies not only to all long distance calls but the toll rate is fifteen cents or more per minute the total charge for a single conversation, including overtime, amounts to 15 cents or more.

Boston, Dec. 2.—Special rates on the Boston and Maine and the New Haven roads from all New England points to Boston from December 15 to December 25 have been asked by Mayor Curley in letters sent to chairman Eliot and President Houghton, to whom buying in Boston. The mayor hopes to establish a New England trade week similar to the weeks of the same sort established in the Middle West and West around large cities. The mayor has also asked President Sullivan of the Bay State Street Railway to allow signs to be placed in his cars bearing the legend: "New England Trade Week in Boston. Do Your Shopping Early."

VILLA NOW IN COMMAND OF MEXICO CITY

Entered the Capital With Provisional President Gutierrez—Promises to See that Everybody is Protected

Mexico City, Dec. 1.—(Gen. Emiliano Zapata, who has entered the capital at the head of about 25,000 troops, he arrived yesterday afternoon in the suburbs where he remained during the evening receiving delegations and foreign consuls. Villa will not enter the capital part of the city until the arrival of Provisional President Gutierrez.

Sec. Bryan Warns Americans Against Venturing Into Interior of Mexico

Washington, Dec. 1.—Gen. Emiliano Zapata, whose forces occupy Mexico City, has assured the United States government through American Consul Sullivan that foreigners will be given every protection and that his troops will continue to preserve order.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Conditions resulting from the withdrawal of American troops from Vera Cruz are outlined in the following announcement by the state department.

In a telegram received by the state department from Consul Canada at Vera Cruz, dated Nov. 30, it is stated that many Americans returning to Vera Cruz find it impossible to go to the interior.

No hope is entertained that railway communications will be better for many months to come on account of the fact that the railway lines are controlled by different factions and in constant danger of destruction.

The consul suggests that this information be given to the public in order to prevent American citizens from becoming stranded at Vera Cruz. This is the first official admission made by the state department that chaos had followed the departure of Gen. Huerta and his 5000 troops and marines.

Scheme to Restore Old Ring
Information came to Washington last night that American and Mexican capitalists are financing a scheme whereby they hope to discredit the various constitutionalist factions in Mexico and to re-establish a government controlled by the remnants of the old Diaz-Huerta group, known locally as "Chinitos."

The men who are heading the project hope to impress Secretary of State Bryan with the belief that all hope for a settlement of the Mexican situation disappeared when Carranza took the field against Gutierrez, the provisional candidate nominated by Villa's generals in the Aguascalientes convention.

They hope to convince Mr. Bryan that since Villa's late ally, Carranza, has failed to restore order, it would be impracticable for him to shift the support of this government to Villa. They have painted Villa in colors that cannot be reconciled with Mr. Bryan's conception of a patriot.

The Washington end of the transaction is being handled by Thomas MacManus, who was an agent for Diaz, and later for Huerta. He was once Governor of Vera Cruz, and is reported to be a wealthy land owner.

If the constitutionalists finally set up a government worthy of the recognition of this country, the lands now owned by Senor MacManus would be split into homesteads for soldiers and others who have supported the revolutionists.

Infino Noriega and Emeterio de La Garza are assisting Senor MacManus. Noriega is a Spaniard and is reported to be a capitalist. La Garza is a politician, who is in charge of the publicity campaign which is calculated to prove to the American people that Mexico never can be ruled in an orderly manner by men of Villa's class.

Col. T. J. Robertson, one of Secretary Bryan's close friends, who is also father of the American consul at Monterey has been in conference with these gentlemen several times recently. The group has held a conference with Senator Stone chairman of the Senate committee on foreign relations and they also have held the situation before Secretary Bryan.

The announcement that Gen. Pablo Gonzalez has declared himself President of Mexico is believed to be a part of the general scheme being forwarded by this group. It is understood that Gonzalez will constitute himself the dissenting element in any agreement that may be reached by the other former Constitutionalists, and he will be expected to keep sections of Mexico in turmoil, by way of proving to the United States that Villa is incapable of handling the situation.

It is understood, that the plan of the group is to offer Fernando Gonzalez, a brother of Pablo, as a compromise candidate when the time is ripe for overtures. Fernando is a wealthy land owner, was close to the old Cientifico ring, and was particularly friendly toward Huerta.

Tried to Buy Huerta.
Soon after President Wilson announced that he would not recognize Huerta, Fernando Gonzalez, who was in New York, went to Mexico City to urge Huerta to get out. An attempt was made to raise a fund of $5,000,000 in gold with which to induce Huerta to turn the government over to Gonzalez.

This money was to be raised by a group of Americans and Mexicans who had invested in Mexico, principally in concessions of dubious legality. Huerta was to get the lion's share of the fund, and the remainder was to go to some of his supporters.

Huerta refused to consider the scheme, and it failed. It is reported that Gonzalez pledged himself to have the Mexican government pay several million dollars on the old Manning-Molnash claim, which has been thrown out of every Mexican court, and which has been laid down repeatedly by Mexican Legislatures.

This claim grew out of certain payments made by a British partnership in Mexico, more than 50 years ago. The claim was owned originally by an English syndicate.

Several years ago, the claim was sold to an American group, which pleaded with the state department to demand payment from Mexico. The department refused to consider these requests.

The American owners of the claim, it is understood, then began to look around for a "presidential candidate" who would promise to make good the claim in the event that he was hoisted into the executive office by agents

SHORTAGE OF REVENUE STAMPS HOLDS UP BUSINESS

Boston, Dec. 1.—The provisions of the Federal Emergency Revenue Act, passed by Congress on Oct. 22 last, which requires a stamp tax on deeds, property transfers, bills of lading, and other legal and commercial papers, on railroad tickets and on certain proprietary articles, went into effect at midnight last night.

Almost immediately the merchants of Boston were confronted with embarrassment arising from a tremendous shortage in the supply of one-cent documentary stamps. The result was that the stamp tax, for a few hours this morning, brought a temporary halt in many commercial transactions which legally cannot now be completed without the imposition of a Federal stamp.

The banks are feeling the effect of the shortage through incessant demands from their patrons for supplies of the stamps, which they themselves cannot get. Several of the larger institutions, which have elected to supply their customers with stamps upon request, reported this morning that they were overwhelmed with telephone calls asking where they could procure stamps of various denominations and, stamps failing, what step the bank officials would recommend them to take to show their willingness to comply with the law.

The merchants, however, hit were wholesale and other mercantile firms, which are constantly shipping heavy commitments of goods to other parts of the country. Manufacturers and shippers of any articles are compelled by law to place a one-cent documentary stamp upon every bill of lading. Since the bill of lading is an indispensable agency of mercantile affairs, thousands being turned out every hour in Boston commercial circles, it is apparent what a handicap has been placed upon the merchants.

Many Transfers Are Held Up

The shortage also hit some of the real estate and stock brokers and insurance companies hard, they paying to hold up policies and transfers of property until able to procure stamps or take other similar steps.

The shortage of stamps did not apply to one-cent stamps, alone, for many merchants, having only one-half cent stamps left, used two together for a bill of lading, and this supply was soon exhausted in some quarters.

The contingency was finally met by several big houses, which could not afford to check the flow of their business, placing upon the bills of lading or other documents at hand a sufficient postage stamp, on the good faith of the taxable party and its willingness to comply with the law. Bank officials expressed the belief that the authorities would not look unfavorably upon such measures, in view of the great emergency. Other firms awaited the arrival of more stamps.

A fair idea of the manner in which the shortage affects local banks may be obtained from the statement of an official of the National Shawmut Bank to a Globe man this morning. His banking house purchased yesterday about 60,000 stamps at the office of the Collector of Internal Revenue, 46 Milk street, to be used both at the main office and in the New England banks and trust companies of the Shawmut system. These were purchased after a representative of the bank had stood in line yesterday from 9.15 a. m. until 3 p. m. so great was the demand from those who had postponed their purchasing until the last few days.

At 11 this morning the bank still had orders with the Government agent for 50,000 stamps, largely of the one-cent denomination all of which were undelivered.

Of course the stamps are purely proprietary, in fractions of a cent up to five, and documentary, from one-half of a cent and one-cent in even figures, right up to $100.

SEEK TO IMPRESS AMERICANS

When German tourists left Berlin just after the war began, great efforts were made to impress them with the justice of the German cause. They were laden with German newspapers and also received many copies of the following, especially prepared appeal to the United States which they were asked to publish in America:

A Farewell Word to Americans

Citizens of the United States: In this earnest moment in which you are leaving the soil of Germany, and Berlin, take with you from the German citizens, from representatives of trade and industry, who are proud to entertain friendly commercial relations with the United States, a hearty farewell accompanied with the desire of a speedy return.

Together with this farewell we beg of you to do us a favor. As our guests whom we have always honored and protected, we ask you to take this paper with you as a memorial and to circulate the same among your authorities, press, friends, and acquaintances.

For, we are well aware that the enemies of Germany are at work to make you the instruments to lower Germany's people and army in the face of the whole world in order to deceive foreign nations as to Germany's political and economical power. We ask you as free citizens face to face with free citizens, to circulate the real truth about Germany among your people as compared to the lies of our enemies.

We beg you to take the following points to heart:

1. The German Emperor and the German nation wanted peace. The cunning and breach of faith of our opponents have forced the sword into the hands of Germany.

2. After war has been forced on us the German nation, Emperor and Reichstag have granted everything in the most brilliant unanimity of war. No difference prevails in Germany any longer, no difference between party, confession, rank or commission, but we are an united nation and army.

3. Our military organization and our mobilization has proceeded with splendid precision. The mobilization was accomplished during the course of a few days. In addition to those who are compelled to serve, more than 1,200,000 volunteers have offered their services. All civil organizations from the head of industry and finance to the smallest man downward, vie with each other in works of voluntary aid and welfare.

4. In the field German arms have had splendid successes in the first days of mobilization.

In the east the Russian army has been driven from the German frontier in numerous small fights by our troops in conjunction with those of the Austro-Hungarian Monarchy. By successful coup de mains our navy has been successful in damaging and alarming our Russian opponents in her Baltic naval ports. The Russian port of Lihon has been burnt down and in Russian Poland Revolution has already begun. Russian mobilization is a long way from being accomplished, the troops are badly, poorly nourished and deserters sell their weapons and horses.

In the west, the German army has gained imposing victories over Belgium and France.

In Belgium, where the population unfortunately committed the most barbarous atrocities against peaceful Germans before the war broke out, comparatively weak German forces conquered the strong forces of Belgium a few days after the mobilization, inflicting severe damage on the enemy and opening up the way via Belgium to France.

Valuable victories have been obtained over France and on the Albanian frontier, toward the strong French fortress of Belfort as well as in the direction of the fortress Lunelville. At Muelhausen one and one-half French army divisions were overthrown and driven back over the frontier with heavy losses.

The strong and effective German fleet is on the watch against the English fleet.

England's risk is great in staking her reputation as the strongest naval power on one throw against the German fleet. Further England runs the danger that her large colonies, such as India and Egypt will seize a moment that has long been desired to revolt.

It is for the United States to utilize the present moment to frustrate the powerful initiative England's endeavor to keep down all nations, including America, in the trade and traffic of the world.

Citizens of the United States take the conviction with you to your homes that Germany will stake her last man and her last penny for victory. Germany must conquer and will conquer. Remember, that after a successful victory Germany will make new political and economical progress, and that America as a shrewd business-like state and as a friend of Germany will participate in such progress.

Today we beg you earnestly to convey to your fellow citizens that the German nation, as the safe refuge of civilization and culture, has always protected the loyal citizens of its enemies in every manner in contrast to Russia, France and Belgium. By circulating this sort of memorial among your fellow citizens you are likewise insuring that also in the future the United States will learn the truth about Germany's battles and victories. Your friends here will always do the best in their power to supply you with genuine news. We wish you a happy voyage toward your home, so appreciated by all Germans and hope to see you again in a victorious and prosperous Germany.

TIGHT SKIRTS.

Prevailing Fashion Figures in the Hearing on Car Steps.

The public service commission gave a hearing at Concord on Tuesday on the question of whether steps on the electric cars in the state are reasonably safe and adequate. The point in issue was whether or not the steps are low enough for the prevailing fashions in women's skirts and for elderly and invalid persons. All of the electric roads in the state except the Concord and Manchester line were represented. The latter line has been already ordered to put in lower steps and has complied with the order.

Various estimates of the cost of the changes were made. They ranged from $30 to $450, according to the sort of rolling operated. The heavier and larger cars would require folding steps, which would mount the expense materially. It was estimated that the Manchester company would be forced to expend from $130 to $150 on all ten cars and considerably more for used cars.

SET ANOTHER SENATOR.

Weeks, Republican, Wins Out in Recount in 14th District.

The recount of votes cast for senator in the 14th district at the recent election, had at the state house this week, showed the election of Dr. Rufus M. Weeks of Suncook, Republican, over Nathaniel S. Drake of Middlefield, Democrat.

By the official vote, Drake was declared the victor, by four votes. The recount wiped this out and showed a plurality of four for Dr. Weeks, a change of eight votes. The matter will now go to the committee on elections of the senate on the organization of that body in January.

John S. Young of York Beach was here on Tuesday.

THE HUMOR OF THE JEWISH RACE.

Mr. (Perlmutter) Discusses the 'Abe' and 'Mawruss' of the Famous Comedy.

Understand me, I do not know for sure, but I would say there is no such thing as Hebrew humor. Poetry, yes; no people have more. Wit, yes; superb, immeasurable, invincible wit. But humor? I'm uncertain. I doubt it. In the ordinary sense of the word, humor is a natural product of the Jewish race.

And yet the Jews are really the most humorous people the world has ever known. There is a curious bent in the mind of every Jew which gives a twist of its own to everything and he is at once so shrewd and so simple, so serious and so hopeful, so cautious and yet so daring, so suspicious and yet so trusting, so desirous to be honest and yet so human, he cannot be a humorist. But of most of it he is unconscious.

In everything a Jew is so serious. It is that which helps to a large degree to make him humorous. He has not the blithe whimsicality of the Irishman. Although they have their deep love of race and their feeling of oppression in common, the outlook of the Jew is entirely different from that of the Celt. The Celt's outlook is serious. The Jew's is humorous. But the Jew is rarely deliberately humorous in his language. He has no Barney Kline that he can kiss. He never purposely plays the fool in word or act. He makes fun simply for fun's sake.

But when it comes to creating humor on the stage, the Jew leads easily. The awkward part of a Jew's humor is that he is almost invariably the butt or victim of it himself. He can, therefore, get himself into absurd and laughable situations far more naturally than men of any other race.

Take Mawruss Perlmutter as an example. Mawruss is a fine type of the Young American Jew. There is, not the slightest touch of the buffoon about him in any moment of the play. He has traveled and mixed with people. He uses words for the most part correctly. The contrast between him and Abe Potash marks the rapid progress of the Jew in advancing himself in culture as well as wealth. Mawruss has few or no mannerisms except in instances of excitement, and at all times he endeavors to live up to the highest ideals of a gentleman. And yet, apart from having to be a mere foil to bring out the humor of Abe he is equally a source of laughter himself. I doubt if this could be so were the characters other than those of Jews. For Mawruss despite all his polish is still a Jew.

Everybody laughs at "Potash and Perlmutter" I do myself—except when I look at my partner, Abe. When I look at Abe, I don't know whether to laugh or cry. I've known Abe ever since I could talk enough to call him "Uncle" and I never knew anybody to laugh at him. People used to get mad at him sometimes, but they never laughed.

In my opinion, Montague Glass has given me the greatest thing in literature since Dickens. Really and truly I will go further. The drawing of his characters is, I consider, far and away better than anything the great English humorist did. I believe, "Potash and Perlmutter" will stand for all time as a fingerpost on the big wide, literary road, because its characters aren't counterfeit goods but the genuine article.

Dickens gave us artificial, individual temporary types. Glass has given us real living men, eternal types of their race. There never was a real Sam Weller nor a real Sarah Gamp. But there were Abe Potashes and Mawruss Perlmutter watching Noah build the ark. There were Abe Potashes and Mawruss Perlmutter who helped Moses spoli the Egyptians and cross the Red Sea, and there have been Abe Potashes and Mawruss Perlmutter ever since and will be for ages and ages yet to come.

But this is the first time they have been put on the stage. This is the first time the real Jew, with all his faults and failings, and with all his good qualities as well has ever been shown in a play. That's why the tears come sometimes when I look at old Abe. I am so happy I could cry. Usually only grotesque low-life outrageous caricatures of Jews have been given. Until "Potash and Perlmutter" I despair of ever seeing a play which honestly tried to do justice to the race, and yet which would not destroy its value by overplotting the good side.

"Potash and Perlmutter" shows the Jew just as he really is. Every type and every good and bad quality is realistically set forth in the most masterly way. Yet, thanks to the most inexhaustible fun of humor in the Jew the result, which should be more powerful than a thousand sermons, given three hours of almost incessant laughter. One, therefore has to say that the Jew has humor, though there may be no Hebrew humor as a gift or art of the race. At the Portsmouth Theatre this evening.

GERMANS IN LONDON

There are in London many thousands of Germans in various lines of business, whom the international war has affected in various ways. Though the people of London are not as actively partisan as the citizens of Paris and Berlin, they have nevertheless allowed the Germans in their midst that they are not welcome and that Londoners in time of war want nothing Teutonic.

That German residents and commercial houses in all parts of London are feeling a not unreasonable anxiety these days is evident in many ways. One sees it in the west end where ten offices of the German steamship companies are shuttered. Bakers and other tradesmen in that section who have by years of dealing grown familiar to customers under honest German names have lost much of their trade and are trying to regain it under such English names as Stewart and Company, and the like.

On drug stores catering to German trade the signs "Deutsche Apotheke" have mysteriously disappeared overnight. Other German tradespeople are adopting strenuous measures to hold their trade and ingratiate their British customers. In one west end delicatessen shop appears a sign "The proprietor is a naturalized British subject" and further insurances a sign that "Twenty five per cent of the takings of all my shop will be given to the British Red Cross Society."

The average Londoner who would not dream of throwing a stone at a druggist's window or helping to wreck a cater's store may smile at these things. But in many parts of the city German residents have little cause to smile. In two cases German baker shops have been wrecked in the night and in one case a German grocer suffered similarly.

ALLIES PREPARE TO DRIVE GERMANS ACROSS BORDER

London, Dec. 1. The allied armies in France and Belgium are preparing to take the offensive in an attack which is planned to push the Kaiser's forces back over the border into Germany. The military leaders have decided to take timely advantage of the weakening of the enemy's forces. Large numbers of which have been sent to Poland in an effort to check the Russian advance.

A strong attack by the French and British may be looked for in the event of a great Russian triumph in Poland. Military observers incline to the belief that the Germans are suspending operations in the west until an issue is obtained in the east and are ready to withdraw to a second line of defense in Belgium if the battle goes against them.

Telegrams from Amsterdam, the correspondent of the Central News says the German front before Dixmude has begun a general retirement.

King George Visits Front

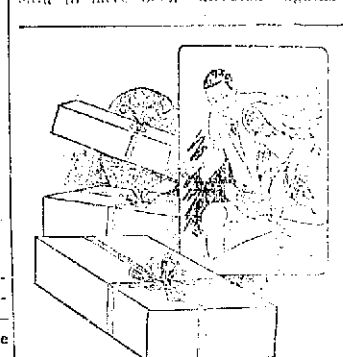

The departure of King George for the front and his visit to the troops is believed to foreshadow an early offensive movement by the allies. It is realized such an action will not be undertaken until Gen. Joffre and French are convinced the strength of the Germans has reached a low ebb in their vain efforts to reach the coast by hauling vast forces against the allied lines. The German attack has now lost a great part of its force and with fresh French and British troops constantly arriving the time for the allies to strike is believed to be rapidly approaching.

King George spent but one day at the front, and is now, probably, on his way back to England. He landed in northern France (place not named), where he was met by members of the staff of Gen. Sir John French and the Prince of Wales, who accompanied his father on a visit to the military hospitals.

The Germans have built defense works at Quendrecht, commanding the high road to Brussels, according to reports from Rotterdam, and have erected strong fortresses at Contrail, Boulers and Tournai. Fortresses stretch for miles along ranges of hills and are supplied with guns having a range of six miles. Other unofficial reports are that the Germans are preparing for a winter campaign in Belgium and France. Heavy guns, provisions, winter clothing, ammunition and hospital accessories are being hauled into the German bases by the railroad.

All Available Germans in Belgium Sent to the Front.

Paris, Dec. 1.—Every able-bodied German in Belgium that can be spared from garrison duty is on the fighting line between Ypres and the sea. Reports reaching here today declare that during the lull in the fighting of the past week Belgian towns back of the lines were emptied to the last man that could be spared in the maintenance of order. Ypres and the Yser. More than 100,000 Germans are massed for this assault.

The much of reinforcements is believed to be in anticipation of an offensive movement by the French and British. In case of a German retreat, becoming necessary this force will be needed to hold the allies in check and allow the Germans to cover their lines of communication.

Petrograd, Dec. 1.—First line German troops are now opposing a portion of the Russian army in Poland. It is stated here today. The arrival of reinforcements for the enemy and the strengthening of the corps of mere youths and second and third line troops by the first fighting forces is said to be responsible for the delay in settling the issue.

Their losses are declared to be enormous. The Germans fought their way out of the Yser they were caught in south of Loos at the point of the bayonet in the face of terrible machine gun and rifle fire. Prisoners which have been taken are suffering terribly from hunger and exposure. In their retreat the Germans have lost vast quantities of supplies.

Claims Russians Lost 2500 in Big Battle.

Vienna (via Berlin and London), Dec. 1.—An official statement today declared:

"The Russian defeat in the battle at Homontova was even greater than that supposed. Our troops surrounded the Russian position and from both wings delivered a double forward flank attack. Our artillery has caused fearful losses to the enemy. Our attack was irresistible and the Russians were forced to retreat, losing 1500 prisoners. Their casualties were more than 1000.

"Fighting continues in the southern theatre of war. Suvorov is stubbornly defended. A position on the high road to Valjevo was taken by storm yesterday after fierce fighting, in which 1200 men and 11 machine guns were captured. There is nothing of importance in the north."

Germans Claim Capture of 3500 Russians Yesterday

Berlin, Dec. 1.—Additional successes are claimed in North Poland and 3500 Russians are reported captured in the war office official statement today.

"Quiet prevails in East Prussia and southern Poland," the statement adds. "Our booty in North Poland has been increased as a result of yesterday's successes by 9500 men, 19 cannons, 35 machine guns and numerous ammunition carts."

Germans Are Almost Surrounded in Poland.

Paris, Dec. 1.—The present situation in Poland, according to Ludovic Naudant, the special representative of the Journal de Paris, who is at the Russian headquarters in the field, is as follows:

"Gen. Mackensen's 8th German army is separated into three groups. The first, between Gombin to the north and Brzeziny to the south, is being attacked on three sides. There remains an opening on the western road toward Kutno, which, however, will be threatened by Russians advancing from Lodz. Part of this first group at Gombin and Strykow is almost entirely surrounded.

"The second group to the south at Ragnow and Taczyn is trying to force its way through to the north, but is opposed by the Russians at Lodz and Brzeziny, and the western road is closed to it by the same Russian army which recently beat the German corps at Wlczyn.

"The third group to the west is in a critical but not a desperate condition, for by a right flank at Zdanowola on the Warta, it still holds the road to Kalisz, which could serve either for retreat or for reinforcements if Gen. von Hindenburg thinks it still possible to try to save his 8th army."

JOHN G. WENDELL, HEAD OF FAMILY, DIES.

Controlled New York Land Worth $50,000,000.

New York, Dec. 1.—The death yesterday in California of John G. Wendell, head of an old New York city family, which is one of the largest owners of real estate here, will probably serve to throw into the hands of his four surviving sisters about $50,000,000 of the choicest real estate in this city, says the New York Sun. Much of this property is in unimproved lots and in parcels on which the buildings are of little value.

The surviving sisters are Mary S. A. Wendell, Rebecca A. D. Wendell, Sophia, Ella von E. Wendell and Georgiana G. R. Wendell. Another sister, Josephine, died last spring, and in accordance with the custom of her family, divided her $3,000,000 estate among her brothers and sisters.

"In 200 years or more we have not sold a piece of property in New York, and we never shall," Mr. Wendell was quoted as saying in 1909.

For ten or a dozen years past, Mr. Wendell is said to have been one of the largest real estate buyers in Manhattan. Once he got hold of a property, real estate brokers as a rule knew it would be just as well to cross that parcel off their books of possibilities.

Mr. Wendell always prided itself on the efforts of various men of wealth to acquire the vacant land owned by him next door to his city home at 39th street and 5th avenue, where when not occupying his house at Irvington he lived for many years with his maiden sisters, Misses Josephine and Georgiana Wendell.

He wanted to keep the vacant property about the only 5th avenue "yard" until one gets up to Andrew Carnegie's house at 41st street—so that his sisters "pet dog would have some place to play."

An interviewer rashly suggested to Mr. Wendell a few years ago that the policy of his family of never selling real estate "probably was patterned after the practice of the Astor family."

"We held real estate before John Jacob Astor," cried Mr. Wendell curtly. "Sentiment is our reason for not selling."

TO WOMEN

Your hearts are lifted up, your hearts that have foreknown the utter pride, Your hearts burned upward as a flame of splendour and of sacrifice.

For you, ye too to battle go, Not with the marching drums and cheers,

In the matchless solitude And through the boundless night of fears.

Swift, swifter than those hawks of war, Those threatening wings that pass the air,

Far as the vanguard ranks are set, You are gone before them, you are there!

And not a shot comes blind with death, And not a stab of steel is pressed home, but invisibly it tore

And entered that woman's breast, Amid the thunder of the guns,

The lightning of the lance and sword, Your hope, your dread, your thrilling pride,

Your infinite passion is outpoured, From hearts that are as high as one high heart.

Withholding naught from doom and bale, Burningly offered up to bleed, To bear, to break, but not to fail.

SUDDEN DEATH OF COL. C. F. TOWLE

The sad news was received here on Tuesday afternoon of the sudden death of Col. Charles F. Towle in Pittsburg, a brother of Dr. F. S. Towle of this city. Col. Towle was in that city with the Ben Hur Company of which he was the manager for the owners, Klaw and Erlanger, and his death came very suddenly, his friends having no idea that he was at all in poor health.

Col. Towle was a native of Boston and 58 years of age, and he was an old-time newspaper man. He was for years Washington correspondent of the Boston Traveler under Roland P. Worthington, and also, later represented the New York Herald, the Chicago Inter Ocean, the Louisville Courier and a San Francisco paper.

Several years ago he left the newspaper work for the theatrical business and made a big success of his work in this field. He was Klaw and Erlanger's representative with some of the biggest attractions, including the Rogers Brothers, Charlie McDonald and he made the greatest success with Ben Hur and while he had charge of it, this show made the most money of any production ever presented in this or any other country.

Two years ago he took Ben Hur and the Think Lady to London, and while there took over the management of the famous English Shakespearean players, and last year he toured the country with them, and was under contract and had them booked for another tour this season, when the war interfered and he was forced to cancel all bookings and he took the Ben Hur Company out on a western tour, and he was in Pittsburg when he was stricken.

He was a man with a very wide acquaintance, especially among the old famous men of the country, and he could talk most interestingly about everybody in public life. He has traveled very extensively and his keen sense of humor and ability to read human nature, made him a most delightful companion. He made friends everywhere and kept them and his death is a great blow to them all.

He leaves besides his brother, one son, David, who traveled with the show and a daughter, Mrs. J. Mitchell Harris, wife of a prominent theatrical man. Dr. Towle got in touch with his nephew in Pittsburg over the telephone last night and he leaves this morning for New York, where the body has been taken.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE.

"Grumpy," with Cyril Maude, the eminent English actor, still continues in its great popularity at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston, where on next Monday the piece begins the fifth week of its engagement. Mr. Maude has been received with unmistakable favor by the New England public and it is safe to say that his stay in Boston will prove equally as successful as was his great New York triumph. Mr. Maude appears as an aged and retired burlesque, who finds himself dragged from his ease and thrown into the unraveling of a mysterious diamond robbery. Mr. Maude's embodiment of the character is as fine and convincing a piece of acting as has ever been shown in Boston. Moreover "Grumpy" is one of the most ingenious and delightful detective plays produced on the American stage in years. It is full of thrills, grotesque and laugus and the authors have interwoven as an undercurrent an absorbing love story. In short, "Grumpy" is one of the rare theatrical treats that come only once in a great while and to miss seeing it is to deprive yourself of a genuinely delightful evening's entertainment. Mr. Maude is ably supported. His leading lady is Elsie Markay, an Australian girl who has won an enviable reputation in a short time. She is regarded as one of the most beautiful girls on the stage, is possessed of grace, charm and personality. The rest of the company are excellent in their respective parts.

"Grumpy" is the sort of play that you enjoy recommending to your friends. Out-of-town playgoers should avail themselves of the efficient mail order system that prevails at the Plymouth. Be sure that your check or money order is made payable to Fred E. Wright. It will receive prompt and accurate attention. The regular matinees are Thursday and Saturday.

And not a shot comes blind with death, And not a stab of steel is pressed home, but invisibly it tore And entered that woman's breast, Amid the thunder of the guns, The lightning of the lance and sword, Your hope, your dread, your thrilling pride, Your infinite passion is outpoured,

From hearts that are as high as one high heart. Withholding naught from doom and bale, Burningly offered up to bleed, To bear, to break, but not to fail.

E. PLURIBUS UNUM.

Victor Hugo said, "I would be a citizen of the United States of Europe while waiting to be a citizen of the United States of the World."

The glory of the United States of America will not be in the increase of its commerce, the destructive power of its navy, or its great cities with their buildings of iron and stone, their parks and monuments, nor even in its good roads, but in a United States of Peace and Good-will, waiting to become a part of the United States of the World.

"Four things a man must learn to do
If he would keep his record true:
To think without confusion clearly,
To act from honest motive purely,
To love his fellow men sincerely,
To trust in God and Heaven securely."
—Dr. Henry Van Dyke.

SUCCESSFUL SALE
AND ENTERTAINMENTMembers of Union Rebekah Lodge,
No. 3, Give Pleasing Old Folks Concert.

Odd Fellows' hall was teeming with life and gaiety on Tuesday evening, when Union Rebekah Lodge, No. 3, I. O. O. F., held their annual Christmas entertainment and sale. Needless to say, the hall was packed to the doors, as is its wont on such an occasion.

At 8 o'clock a delightful concert was presented. The following is the program which was so charmingly presented in the character of an "Old Folks' Concert," and contained the following numbers:

Piano Solo—Miss Florence Shottonworth.

Violin Solo—Roy Walsh, Charles Bruner, accompanist.

The "Old Folks" who appeared in costumes of quaint hoop skirts, basques and Quaker bonnets made a very striking picture.

Opening Chorus—Old Kentucky Home, "Masses in the Cold, Cold Ground."

"Tenting Tonight."

Vocal Solo—"Believe Me If All Those Enduring Young Chums," Miss Ella Goodwin.

Vocal Solo—"Song of Ages," Mr. Ira Brown.

Chorus—"Tramp, Tramp, Tramp."

Vocal Solo—"Sweet and Low," Bernice Klump.

Selection—"How Can I Leave Thee," Messrs. Ira Brown, Charles Bruner, tenors; Frank Willard, Orburn Ham, basses.

Vocal Solo—"Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," Mr. Stewart Shannon Humphreys.

Reading—Selected, Miss Jennie Cooney.

Vocal Solo—"Mistle and I," Miss Winona Noy.

Vocal Solo—"Silver Threads Among the Gold," Miss Julia Humphreys.

Response—"There is Silver Now Where Once Was Gold," Mr. Stewart S. Humphreys.

Chorus—"Old Black Joe."

Reading—Selected, Miss Jennie Cooney.

Vocal Solo—"Love's Old Sweet Song," Miss Winona Noy.

Tenor Solo—"Just Before the Battle, Mother," Mr. Charles Bruner.

Selection—"My Bonnie," Male Quartet.

Grand Finale by Chorus—"Annie Laurie," "Old Folks at Home," "Hallelujahs," "Old Lang Syne," "Star Spangled Banner."

The chorus included Misses Ella Goodwin, Cora Humphreys, Julia Humphreys, Mildred Mudgett, Gladys Mudgett, Bernice Klump, Jennie Cooney, Mabel Cooney, Jennie Akerley, Ada Murchmore, Esther Stasberg, Marguerite Neil, Messrs. Stewart S. Humphreys, George Dawson, William Varrell, William Newhall, Harry Stasberg, John Miller, Charles Bruner, Ira Brown, Frank Willard and Orburn Ham.

Miss Ayis Varrell acted as pianist and Roy Walsh was the violinist.

The hall was gaily decorated in festive colors and made a striking scene for just such an event.

The fancy booths were very pretty and were as follows:

Fancy work—Decorated in green and white, with palms, in charge of Mrs. Elizabeth Eaton, Miss Ida Varrell, Mrs. Sophie Trafton, Mrs. Lizzie Anderson, Mrs. Lillian Manning.

Cake booth—Adorned with yellow chrysanthemums; here the beautiful huge guess cake, which contained a gold lodge pin, attracted no little attention. The committee consisted of Miss Nellie Kehoe, chairman; Misses Bernice Fuller, Bernice Smith, Effie Noseworthy.

Mystery booth—In the form of a gaily adorned Christmas tree; Miss Sadie Schurman, chairman; Mrs. Annie Oliver, Mrs. Mabel Trask, Miss Lizzie Corrier.

Candy booth—Trimmed with palms; Mrs. Alice Lasky, chairman; Mrs. Minnie Blaney, Mrs. Lillian Gray, Mrs. Jennie Leavitt.

Kitchen table—Red and white; Mrs. Nellie Thron, Mrs. Josephine Drew.

Ice cream and cake were also on sale. The entire affair was in charge of Mrs. Cora Woods, chairman of the general committee, assisted by Miss Ayis Varrell, who had charge of the concert, and the following members of the entertainment and supper committees acted as their assistants:

Entertainment committee—Miss Jennie Akerley, Mrs. Lena Morrill, Miss Ayis Varrell, Mr. Charles Bruner.

Supper committee—Mrs. Charles Kehoe, chairman; Mrs. Walter Mason, Mrs. Minnie Blaney, Mrs. Sadie Schurman, Mrs. Annie Oliver, Mrs. Alice Lasky, Mrs. Ida Mason, Mrs. Estelle Varrell, Messrs. Charles Kehoe, J. M. Varrell, Walter Mason, Joseph Morrill and Roy Blaney.

The affair was most successful and a considerable sum was realized.

The committees in charge deserve much credit for their indefatigable efforts to make the event the success that it was, which added one more to their score of successes which they have already achieved.

and the decorations were pertinent to the occasion.

The auditorium and tea rooms were adorned with evergreen boughs and red apples, which were as pretty as they were natural. The apples used for decorations were of the large, red, glossy type, which tempt the small boy, as was evident during the evening.

The "Grab Apple Tree" was a popular rendezvous for the children throughout the entire affair, this being a novel way to dispose of "mystery packages." This was in charge of Mrs. Andrew Caswell, chairman; Mrs. R. E. Hannaford, Mrs. Samuel Gilkey.

Fancy work table, red crepe paper, hemlock and red apples used in the decorating scheme. Mrs. Catherine Dwyer, chairman; Mrs. Marion Wright, Mrs. George J. Kaula, Mrs. Ira St. Clair, Mrs. Norman Beane, Mrs. Arthur Lance, Mrs. W. F. Clark, Mrs. George H. Joy and Mrs. John Parsons.

Apron booth—Mrs. Lizzie Pernald, chairman; Mrs. William H. Smith, Mrs. George Bailey, Mrs. Joseph R. Holmes, Mrs. Howard Dodge, and Mrs. George Corbett.

The tea room was an attractive feature and well patronized during the affair. It was arranged with small tables, where an apple luncheon was served. The menu cards were attractively decorated with hand colored apples. The following toothsome dainties were on the bill of fare: Salad, baked apples, biscuit, apple turnovers, apple tarts, apple pie, apples a la mode, tea and coffee.

This department was in charge of Mrs. William Anderson, chairman; Mrs. Henry Dutton, Mrs. James Parker, Mrs. Frederick Watkins, Mrs. Charles McDaniell, Mrs. Edward Sterling, Mrs. Thomas Flanagan, Mrs. Richard Hannaford, Mrs. Charles Deacon, Miss Josephine Norris, Mrs. Sanford Hishop.

The cooked foods table was in charge of Mrs. Henry Payne, chairman; Mrs. Ella S. Jenkins, and Mrs. F. W. Hartford.

An attractive feature on this table were some exceedingly beautiful apples, which were also very large and were sent to Mrs. Daniel Trufren from her son, Mr. Daniel Bertram Trufren, who is located at Seattle, Wash. The apples were in a fine condition and of a very fine flavor. They sold readily for five cents each.

Novelty table, where post cards, souvenir cards and novelties were on sale.

Miss Grace Conner and Mrs. Thomas D. Noyes.

In the evening an entertainment was presented which included a two-act farce entitled, "Not a Man in the House." The following is the cast of characters:

Mrs. Maria Blugs, who has had a rough experience with a cruel husband, and after his death declares that no man shall enter her house... Mrs. Aleah Miss Lucy Ryder, her child sister...

Miss Hanscom Jennie Ray, a niece who has come on a visit...

Mrs. Butler Aunt Bellada, an old-fashioned, elderly lady who sympathizes with the young...

Mrs. Brewster Kate, a servant who has a gentleman cousin whom she greatly admires...

Mrs. Boyd Act 1, Mrs. Blugs' sitting room; act 2, same as act one. Plunkie, Mrs. St. Clair.

The farce was very amusing, for Mrs. Blugs had had a very rough experience with her husband, and after his death is resolved that she will not have a man in the house. The other girls try their hardest to get a man into the house and finally succeeded in getting in one in the shape of a policeman. All the parts were acted very well. The stage was very attractively set as a living room with an open fireplace, pictures, tapestries, ferns, comfortable chairs, etc.

Mrs. Ira M. St. Clair rendered several pleasing selections on the pianoforte. The entertainment committee consisted of Mrs. Arthur G. Brewster, Mrs. Frank D. Butler and Mrs. Robert Boyd.

The affair was most successful, socially and financially and reflects much credit on the ladies in charge.

"EUROPE IN THE SUMMER OF 1914"

The second in a series of smoke talks for the season of 1914-15 will be held at the Warwick club parlors on the evening of Thursday, December 3, at 8 o'clock.

At that time Professor Richard Woodskey of the New Hampshire State College will address the members on "Europe in the Summer of 1914." Professor Woodskey was in Germany at the outbreak of the war, and remained in that country for three weeks, watching at close range the early days of the conflict.

These smoke talks are proving very popular and are very interesting as some speaker of note is present at every talk to address the members of the club on some up-to-the-minute subject.

LIZZIE M. GROVER, Prop.

Pictured above is one of our many styles of fashionable overcoats and we think you'll agree with us that it is a classy looking garment. We show this model in a good variety of smart fabrics, among which is one special coat, "Specially" priced—a blue chinchilla at eighteen dollars.
